HelpConsole is an easy to use in-place documentation generation tool that allows you to quickly create help content for your website. HelpConsole is designed for companies that sell products or offer services to the public. They need a solution to add in-place help systems for their product. HelpSystems allows a company to do this with out the need for technical writers, programmers or graphic artists. HelpSystems is the only tool that is both a documentation and publishing tool that allows you to publish both online help systems as well as PDF manuals on the Internet and link them from your website. You can add and update HelpSystems documentation as often as you want without having to hire any technical writers. After generating your manuals and help content, HelpSystems will email you a link to your newly published online help system. This link will allow your users to access your new online help system from anywhere on the Internet. This is the only tool that allows you to have in-place editable manual content on your website that can be updated by anyone on the Internet. It is the only tool that allows you to publish your online help system to the Internet while at the same time linking your newly published help system to your website. All the user needs to do is visit your link and your newly published online help system will be displayed. Your manual is displayed directly in your web browser, no need for an extra application to be downloaded. * All this is done with no programming or graphic design skills needed. * All editing is done from your browser without an additional application. * All HelpSystems manuals are email friendly. * Your HelpSystems manual can link to your help pages on your site. * Your help page can link to your HelpSystems help manual. * Automated email alerts to your technical writer when a new manual is published. * Fully customizable HelpSystems links to your site or web page for more information. * HelpSystems Description: HelpSystems is an easy to use help system and documentation generation tool that allows you to create online manual content and publish online help systems to your website.
